BLACK TEA

中国黑茶

Dian Hong black tea is commonly referred to as red tea in China. This famous variety originated from the historical homeland of tea, the land of Dian. It is made from juvenile leaves and unopened buds ("golden tips"), which gives the tea a special bright floral and spicy aroma and rich tart flavor with a mild, long and memorable aftertaste.

Lapsang Souchong is an amazing tea, with a deep red-burgundy color, a tangy rich flavor and a bright smoky aroma. According to ancient Chinese technology, it is carefully smoked on pine wood. It is an excellent tonic, filling the body with vigor and energy. Our Taiga tea is especially good when enjoyed in nature.

This tea is harvested in the mountains of Fujian province, where tea plantations are shrouded in a thick milky fog from midnight until dawn, protecting the delicate upper leaves from night frosts.
